The Speech-Language-Hearing Clinic at Buffalo State University provides speech, language, and hearing services to individuals of all ages. Evaluation and therapy services are provided by graduate students in the Speech-Language Pathology Department under the direct supervision of faculty and professional staff who are licensed by New York State and hold the Certificate of Clinical Competence from the American Speech-Language-Hearing Association.

State-of-the-art equipment aids clinic staff in the diagnosis and remediation of a variety of disorders, including articulation and phonological disorders; language impairments in children and adults; aphasia; hearing; voice and resonance; and stuttering; fluency disorders; motor speech; and traumatic brain injury. Staff also work with individuals who wish to modify their accents. Services are currently free.

The Speech-Language-Hearing Clinic does not discriminate in the delivery of clinical services on the basis of race, or ethnicity, gender, age, religion, national origin, sexual orientation, or disability.
